Reflecting on Water. Water, water, everywhere. Water in the Exodus through the sea and flowing from the rock in Horeb. Water in Jacob's well. Living water is found only in Jesus, becoming a spring of eternal life.

- ◆ In preparing to renew baptismal promises this Easter, how will my figuratively drinking at the well of Baptism today nourish my Christian life?
- ◆ Each time I dip my fingers in the font, I will pray for _____?
- ◆ When the First Scrutiny is celebrated with the elect this Sunday, how will I also shun with them all that is wrong in our lives, in the Church, and in our world?

It is to keep you in peace that I place this priest between your soul and Myself. The words he will speak to you are My words. Reveal to him your soul’s greatest secrets. I will give him light to know your soul.’” (Diary, 232)

Theological Thoughts with Deacon Michael

What are these “Scrutinies”?

Adapted & abbreviated from “Team RCIA” (teamrcia.com)

This and the next two Sundays, we depart from our Year C readings and instead proclaim the readings for Year A, which accompany the three "Scrutinies" for our RCIA elect, preparing to enter the church at Easter. We'll celebrate the scrutinies at the 10:30 Sunday Mass.

To understand how the scrutinies work to prepare our elect for initiation, we have to remember the paschal baptismal theology of Romans 6 that is proclaimed at the Easter Vigil and enacted in the celebration the initiation rites: Separation from the past: “We know that our old self was crucified with him.” Transition: “If, then, we have died with Christ [through baptism]” Incorporation into the new: “we shall also live with him.”

From the moment of their initial contact with Christians, the now-elect have been undergoing a transformation. Through repeated and ever-more-intimate encounters with Christ, the elect have undergone a gradual spiritual conversion. That conversion amps up significantly in Lent as the elect begin “the final, more intense period of preparation for the sacraments of initiation” (RCIA 118).

The scrutiny rites are sometimes a stumbling block for pastoral leaders. Before the catechumens can become elect and designated for initiation, they are to have already “undergone a conversion in mind and in action and to have developed a sufficient acquaintance with Christian teaching as well as a spirit of faith and charity” (RCIA, 120).

If their conversion has already taken place, what do the scrutiny rites do? The scrutinies are still essential because of the immense reality of the new role the catechumen is taking on in the community.

The three gospel stories at the heart of the scrutinies - the Samaritan woman, the man born blind, and Lazarus - remind the elect and us of the far-reaching and cosmic “death-dealing power of evil” (RCIA 175). The three scrutinies provide a spiritual, small-sacramental process to allow the elect to fully grasp (to become purified and enlightened) about what it is God is doing in their lives and what they are being called to do as disciples.

In each of the gospel selections, Jesus heals sin and frees people from the death that evil causes.

The serious purpose and consequential nature of the scrutinies require the full, conscious, and active participation of both the elect and the worshiping assembly. In fact, the rite says that all three scrutinies are required. Only the bishop can dispense the obligation to celebrate all three of them and then only with serious pastoral reason (see RCIA 20).

Even so, many still find the scrutinies difficult. The language of “scrutiny” and “exorcism” and even “sin” does not sit well with us. What we must understand is the celebration of the scrutinies is not some kind of remedial corrective for an ill-lived life. It is a spiritual, sacramental rite that delivers the new believers from “death-dealing power of evil” that confronts all of us, every day.

The scrutinies help in the process of liberating the elect from the dominion of darkness and bringing them into the light of Christ. It is a grace that we should not minimize and cannot deny to those who are about to enter the waters of baptism.

Did you remember your gift?

The story is told of a wise pastor who went to get a haircut. The barber, who also happened to be a parishioner, took the opportunity to tell the pastor all the reasons why the barber was not going to complete his stewardship pledge card.

"I don't think we should have to promise to give money to God. We should give what our heart tells us at the time. I like to be able to just put in the collection whatever I have that week."

The pastor listened carefully and after his haircut he handed the barber $1 for the $10 haircut, saying, "I like to give what my heart tells me – just whatever I have in my pocket at the time."

"Father," the barber protested, "I can't pay my rent, take care of my expenses and run my business successfully if everyone would do that."

"Neither can God," the pastor replied.
